

As this is not a whitepaper since I have written something on it, you have been scammed already. Want to master the art of scamming? Look no further.

We have written an imaginary book that contains everything you need to know. But all the good content is behind multiple paywalls that need to be unlocked. They were created by professionals designed specifically to suck your dry and make you addicted. But that is not all.

You can get access to a home developed, unique, secret, nonexistent function that predicts the future. Yes, you heard that right. This formula will allow you to conquer the universe. It takes input human psychology, countries policies, the price charts, temperature, how many times PUBG crashed, topdecks, rng and many other parameters in our premium nonexistent algorithms to calculate the answer to your question. Here is an example of it in action $f(\text{Human psychology, Countries policies, Pricebearbull129, 20C, 94, 13, ...}, \text{What is life?}) = 42!$

Here is part of a story I wrote and never finished when I was a lot younger so it will look more full and serious. Just like your dreams you had that will remain unfinished. Sometimes you wish you could go back and choose another path. But it will seem so distant. They will bother you a bit, but soon you will forget them. As a last note, remember, looks matter more than people care to admit. So, faking your wealth will get people to believe and fall into the scam faster.

Deep within the earth's cluster lays the home of those banned from our world, since the great battle determined their fate. It all started millennia ago when the first nomads roamed the earth.

Falurians were an aggressive nomad and their only target was to seize the existence of the other nomads. They were named after their mighty leader Falur Hati. Falurians, soon became hated by the rest of the nomads due to their brutality and remorseless. Recruiting lone bandits, they became the largest nomad. Their army was unmatched.

The remaining nomads, rushed to form an alliance to protect themselves from Falurians, who continually wiped more and more nomads. Most of their targets were farmers and peaceful people. The goal of the alliance was to banish them from the earth's face and restore harmony back to earth. Under the constant fear of attack the alliance grew fast. Kein Nortom was selected to lead the alliance, as he was the only remaining wizard, except Falur. Crafters from all nomads created mighty weapons and strong armors. Kein enhanced the weapons and armors with magic. Soon they were greatly outnumbering Falurians, who started counting loses after their fights with nomads. Falur Hati confident in his abilities challenged the leader of the alliance Kein Nortom to gather his armies and clash into a final battle, where the surviving leader would conquer the earth.

The battle say was placed where the first people lived 2.5 million years ago and lasted 2 days and nights of continuous slaughter and bloodbath. Falur managed to reach Kein, and after a great battle, a thunderous hit from Kein knocked Falur unconscious. The remaining Falurians, seeing their leader fall, rushed to help him. They dragged him into the back lines, to protect him. The corpses of Falurians were piling up. Defeat was in sight and without their leader to guide them, they fled into a nearby cave, where they decided to make their last stand.

Why are you still reading?

Go help the kittens!!